DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Murakami et al.

The patent by Murakami et al. (6,679,201) shows a blow off valve assembly (8) with a valve body. The blow-off valve is disposed in the valve body and is configured to control coolant flow through an engine based on coolant pressure. An actuator (23) is disposed in the valve body and configured to electro-mechanically activate the valve under certain conditions independent of coolant pressure.

The valve includes a conical end (22) and is configured to extend axially to seal a coolant path of a cooling system.

The valve further comprises a spring connected to another end of the valve and is configured to bias the valve against a seat of the valve body to seal the coolant path.

The actuator includes a plunger (27) connected to the valve body configured to unseat the valve under certain conditions.

Art Unit: 3747

The valve assembly further includes at least one coolant inlet port (24) configured to receive pressurized coolant circulating through a cooling system.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8, 9, 13-15, 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Murakami et al.

The patent by Murakami et al. does not specifically show that the coolant system can be used in outboard motors. It is the view of the examiner that the application of the engine is an obvious choice of design because no new or unexpected results are achieved.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 12/08/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. It is argued that the patent by Murakami does not show that the coolant valve is actuated by coolant pressure. It is the view of the examiner that the limitations of claim 1 require that the valve be configured to prevent coolant flow when a coolant pressure is below a threshold. It is further the view of the examiner that the valve in Murakami is able to achieve this limitation. The valve is able to prevent coolant flow in the occasion that a coolant pressure is below a threshold value.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 10-12 and 16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
